Drugs, sexting highlight local trends workshop

By GERY L. DEER
Contributing Writer

XENIA — Professionals from the areas of education and law enforcement gathered in the Greene County Social Services Media Room Friday for a day-long workshop focusing on local trends in alcohol/drug abuse, internet safety and “sexting.” Sponsored by Greene County Prosecutor Stephen K. Haller and Integrated Youth Services (IYS), the session featured talks by local officials who demonstrated how these problems are affecting Greene County at school, home and the local community.

Lesia Inlow is a clinical director with IYS and has worked for the agency for the last 8 years. “We’ve been working with Greene County Prosecutor Stephen K. Haller and the Agencies for Combined Enforcement (ACE) task force on preventative programs,” Inlow said. “Every year we try to do two or three county-wide programs and we decided this time to focus on some of the trends among young people and that included drug and alcohol abuse, internet safety and

Obama warns Iran: ‘come clean’ on nukes or risk confrontation

By CHARLES BABINGTON and ROBERT BURNS
Associated Press Writers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Backed by other world powers, President Barack Obama declared Friday that Iran is speeding down a path to confrontation and demanded that Tehran quickly “come clean” on all nuclear efforts and open a newly revealed secret site for close international inspection. He said he would not rule out military action if the Iranians refuse.

Obama joined the leaders of Britain and France in accusing the Islamic republic of clandestinely building an underground plant to make nuclear fuel that could be used to build an atomic bomb. Iranian officials acknowledged the facility but insisted it had been reported to nuclear authorities as required.

“Iran’s action raised grave doubts” about its promise to use nuclear technology for peaceful purposes only, Obama told a news conference at the conclusion of a G-20 summit whose focus on world econom recovery was overshadowed by disclosure of the Iranian plant.

Obama said a telling moment could come next week when Iran meets with U.S. and other major nations to discuss the nuclear issue.

“Iran is on notice that when we meet with them on Oct. 1 they are going to have to come clean and they are going to have to make a choice” between international isolation and giving up any aspirations to becoming a nuclear power, he said. If they refuse to give ground, they will stay on “a path that is going to lead to confrontation.”

In a dramatic, early morning announcement about the secret Iranian facility, Obama said, “Iran is breaking rules that all nations must follow. The size and configuration of this facility is inconsistent with a peaceful program.”

Unbowed, Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad said his country had done nothing wrong and Obama would regret his accusations.

New business in Yellow Springs can help

By ELIZABETH STUDEBAKER
Feature Writer

YELLOW SPRINGS — On Oct. 17 and 18 Nancy Mellon will launch her new business — Getaways for Women — in the village of Yellow Springs. Women are invited by Mellon to “create your own multi-dimensional experience that will, invigorate, nurture and soothe your spirit.” That Saturday and Sunday will be a time to enjoy what is special about Yellow Springs. The village is a small, safe place where you can relax in a friendly stress-free environment, Mellon remarked.

The Getaway will be a mix of free and for-a-fee fun times. Individuals and groups are invited to pamper themselves at a literary tea, learn to draw, enjoy a massage, belly dancing, hula hooping, or making jewelry, for example. Enjoy unique shopping and incredible cuisine offered in more than 60 shops and 15 restaurants in a Getaway walk-able tour.

Oct. 17 and 18 is also the weekend of the Artists Studio Tour, an opportunity to visit 12 studios in the village. Another Women’s Getaway special will be a photo-op in the photography studio of Scott Kissell

WSU students, faculty to have Great Race

By NIKKI FERRELL

FAIRBORN — Over 130 Wright State students and faculty will visit Fairborn businesses today in the hopes of winning cash.

Wright-Patt Credit Union’s Great Race, a scavenger hunt, begins today at 7 a.m. at Wright State and then continues to Fairborn businesses for challenges and pit stops around 11 a.m., said Wright-Patt officials.

With Beavercreek, Riverside and Dayton nearby, Wright-Patt officials said the reasoning behind the decision to have the second leg of the race in Fairborn was two-fold.

“First, the Great Race is designed to expose students to resources just around the corner from them,” said Jeff Carpenter, vice president of membership and development at Wright-Patt Credit Union.

“This was an opportunity for us
